Privacy Policy

Effective date: June 2026 · Governing law: State of Tennessee

We do not have access to your data.	We do not collect your data.	We do not sell your data.
-------------------------------------	------------------------------	---------------------------

The plain truth

Your health data never leaves your device. Advocate stores everything locally — on your computer, not a server. When you run an AI analysis, only anonymized clinical values are sent: no names, no dates of birth, nothing that identifies you. We have no database of your health records. We could not sell your data if we wanted to — because we do not have it.

1. Data You Enter

Everything you enter into Advocate — lab results, symptoms, medications, family history, genetic data, your profile — is stored in a local SQLite database on your device. This data never leaves your device except as described in Section 2. We have no access to it. Nobody does except you.

2. AI Analysis — Exactly What Gets Sent

What is removed before any data leaves your machine: Your name, exact date of birth (replaced with an age range, e.g. "50–54"), provider names, facility names, patient IDs, account numbers, and all other direct identifiers.

What is sent to the AI: Lab test names, numeric values, reference ranges, and dates; symptom names, severity ratings, and frequency; medication names, doses, and approximate dates; confirmed and suspected conditions; age range (not exact DOB); biological sex; family history conditions and relationships (no names); genetic variant summaries.

Retention: Anthropic (our AI provider) does not retain your data after returning the analysis response. The data is processed in transit and discarded.

3. What We Do Not Collect

Advocate does not collect, store, or transmit: usage analytics or telemetry, crash reports, device identifiers, IP addresses, location data, or any data without your explicit action. There is no tracking of any kind.

4. Download Counting

We may track the number of times the installer is downloaded from our distribution platform (e.g., GitHub Releases). This is an aggregate count only — no identifying information is associated with a download.

5. Voluntary Communications

If you contact us by email or submit a story through the app, we receive only what you send. Story submissions go directly to our email inbox and are never stored in a database. We do not add you to any mailing list.

6. Children

Advocate is not directed at children under 13. We do not knowingly collect information from children under 13.

7. HIPAA

Advocate is not a covered entity or business associate under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA). We do not create, receive, maintain, or transmit Protected Health Information (PHI) as defined by HIPAA. Your health data is stored on your personal device, under your sole control. This architecture is deliberate and is fundamental to Advocate's design.

8. Data Security

Because your data is stored locally, its security depends on your device's security. We recommend using a password-protected device with disk encryption enabled and keeping your operating system updated.

9. Your Rights and Control

You have complete control over your data at all times. You can export it by copying the local database file, delete all of it by deleting that file, and uninstall Advocate at any time. No data is retained anywhere else.

10. Changes to This Policy

We will update the effective date at the top when we make changes. Significant changes will be noted in the app.
